Fred Schmidt, of Fox Lake, Dies of Heart Trouble

Fred Schmidt, 65 years old, formerly a soap manufacturer of Chicago, died suddenly Friday morning at his summer home on Indian Point, Fox Lake. Coroner Taylor, of Libertyville, was notified and the autopsy showed that his death had been caused from heart trouble.

Schmidt had come to the lakes for a number of years. All during the last 20 years he has been forced into retirement on account of his poor health and much of this time had been spent at Fox Lake. Through his summer visits and the fact that he had stayed there most of the last few years had given him a broad acquaintance in that section of the county.

His body was taken to Strang's undertaking rooms where an autopsy was performed.

Kenosha Sheriff Killed When Auto Turns Over

Mrs. Cutler B. Robbins and Mrs. Neil Curry, are in St. Catherine's hospital, Kenosha, suffering from injuries they sustained on Sunday night when Mrs. Robbins' auto turned over, killing Deputy Sheriff Jacob Kuehl of Kenosha a passenger.

Norman Weiss, 5223 Hyde Park bldg., another passenger and personal friend of Mrs. Robbins, escaped with minor bruises.

The three Chicagoans had been at Twin Lakes, Wis., for a business conference between Mrs. Robbins and Carl Rademacher, owner of several cottages there. Mr. Weiss and Mrs. Curry had been invited by Mrs. Robbins to accompany her on the trip.

At Twin Lakes they were introduced to Deputy Kuehl, who was preparing to start to Fox Lake, their destination, on official business. He accepted an invitation to ride with them.

Near the Schumaker farm west of Liberty Corners, the machine ran into a gravel pocket and overturned. According to Stephen Hamer, 1841 Blue Island ave., a guest at the farm who witnessed the accident, the car rolled over three times and Deputy Kuehl was pinned under it as he tried to leap.

A Dog's Devotion.

Lovers of dogs will be interested in the story told at an inquest at the London hospital on the body of a man who committed suicide by throwing himself out of a window. In a letter written just before his death he wrote: "My dog Teddy follows me about. He knows things are very bad with me. I do hope he will be taken care of. As I pace up and down my room he walks with me." A witness said that the dog was very fond of his master and always seemed to understand when he was worried and in trouble.

Dolly in the "Faucet."

Mildred had lived all her five eventful years in the city, and so on her first visit to the country everything was strange and interesting to her, but nothing seemed to fascinate her as did drawing water from the open well. While watching one day her dolly slipped from her hand over the top of the curb into the water. As it went out of sight she ran screaming to her mother: "Oh, mamma, mamma; my dolly failed in the—in the faucet."

Short-Sighted Policy.

BILLIARDS WIN ONE-SIDED GAME SUNDAY

Other Scores

State Line 8, Wilmet 1.
Burlington 16, Elkhorn 7.
Lake Villa and 1st Nat. Bank, postponed.

After winning seven straight games the Antioch team fell victims to the Grand Billiards team of Waukegan. The Billiard players outplayed, outthit, outgeneraled and out-everythined the Antioch boys.

The Billiards opened the first inning with four runs on several errors, several misplays and a hit, and coming back in the next round with three more via the same route, the home team might just as well called it a day right there, for Pederson, who was twirling for Waukegan simply was unbeatable, having a fine mixture of curves, fast balls and an occasional floater that the A's could not fathom.

The day was exceedingly windy and the wind seemed to favor the Antioch team, for on several occasions balls hit by the visitors were labeled for three and four bases and the strong wind would check the balls advance, giving the runner a single or two bases at the best.

Ted Ochs, a newly acquired pitcher started the game, but was relieved of his burdens shortly after the second inning started, making way for "Bob" Wilton. But it mattered little who was pitching for Antioch, for the Billiard players were in a hitting mood, and the balls that were not of the hit variety were fizzled by the Antioch team.

Antioch's only possible chance was in the eighth inning with the score 11 to 2 against them. Three men got on bases through a hit and two bases on balls with only one out. Nabor batting, tried to squeeze home the runner with a bunt and popped an easy fly to the pitcher. It seemed to be the wrong play altogether, as the infield was playing in in order to cut the run off at the plate. Had Nabor been able to put one through the infield it might have been a different story.

The Antioch team is due for a shake-up. They have an excellent team, but with a few changes in the lineup of the team and batting order they should put up a much better game.

The Opeka team will play here next Sunday. The same team played here several weeks ago and Antioch managed to get away luckily with a 17 to 16 score, after battling ten innings.

Benefit Dance

There will be a benefit dance at the Antioch opera house tomorrow, Friday evening. The affair is given by several of the merchants and friends of Mr. Peterson, the tailor. Mr. Peterson's shop was entered a week ago, and nineteen suits were taken, valued at from $85 to $60. As Mr. Peterson has been here but a short time, and was just beginning to "get on his feet," but is at present doing his best to "make good" the loss, you will be doing a kind deed to help out in this instance and also enjoy a good time if you attend the dance tomorrow evening.

Unclaimed Letters

Lewis & Mallat Take T. & S. Grill in Waukegan

The T and S grill and confectionary of Waukegan, has changed hands, Mr. Talcott disposing of his interests to the firm of Lewis & Mallat, druggists.

The deal was completed Friday and the new owners took charge at once. Eventually, according to Mr. Mallat, one of the new owners of the T and S, the place will be changed into a drug store, the Lewis & Mallat store at 132 North Genesee street, being moved into the location at 136 North Genesee street. The corner, business men point out, will be an ideal location for a drug store maintaining a first class soda fountain.

For the present the soda grill will be continued under the management of the drug store firm. G. F. Lewis and A. F. Mallat will alternate in handling the new store until the final switch in business sites is made.

Mr. Lewis was formerly employed at King's drug store, Antioch.

Lake Villa Plays Somers Specials Next Sunday

Next Sunday Lake Villa will meet the strong traveling team from Somers, Wis., at the newly established ball park at Lake Villa. The Lake Villa team this year is under the supervision of the Lake Villa Township Commercial association and a combination of stars have been rounded together in an effort to give their patrons the best in base ball. The Somers Specials have won all games but one this season and Lake Villa will no doubt have their hands full. The game will start at 2:15 o'clock.

State Line Team Defeats Wilmet.

The State Line ball team were victorious 8 to 1 on Sunday when they met the Wilmet team at our local park. They played very good ball and had fourteen clean hits to their credit. Loose fielding on the part of Wilmet helped bring about their defeat. Barstells did the star hitting for State Line with four hits and a walk on five trips to the plate. Sharkey Grant drove in the first run with a long double to the left field. Wilmet's lone score was a home run—the first made by our team on the home diamond this season—by Boyle in the eighth inning. The two teams will meet again at State Line park on the Fourth of July.

Next Sunday the Johnsburg team will come to Wilmet.

MRS. WARRINER TO HEAD LOCAL WOMAN'S CLUB

Mrs. W. W. Dayton, Retiring President, Gives Report of Springfield Convention.

NEXT MEETING IN OCTOBER

June 5, the last regular meeting of the Club year was held for the purpose of electing officers for the next year's work. No other program was provided except the report from the state convention at Springfield, given by the delegate, Mrs. W. W. Dayton. In a very interesting manner she brought the convention home to us and emphasized the outstanding thought of all these gatherings, the need and the value of woman's work in every community and in the world at large. The Tenth District I. F. W. C. reported one thousand dollars sent to the suffering women and children of the Near East. The state at large sent the grand total of $9,000, as a gift from the various clubs of the Federation.

One speaker urged the value of publicity of keeping the work and aims of the Woman's club constantly before the people. She declared the three greatest checks upon the evil tendencies of humanity—to be—the love of God—the fear of the devil and publicity.

Certainly the Woman's club responds to the checks laid upon it both by the love of God and by the fear of the devil and during the year now closing through the kindness and courtesy of the Antioch News the last great check has been put upon us. Upon all our efforts throughout the entire year has shone the white light of publicity. Perhaps there have been criticism—that is inevitable—but an organization like a tree is "known by its fruits." A noted philosopher has said that it is impossible to refute a sneer. It is then the part of wisdom to ignore the sneer which some aim at a Woman's club and accept the fact.

There's not a life, nor death, nor birth There's not a single thing on earth But has a woman in it.

We shall take every opportunity to widen the influence and enhance the dignity and usefulness of the Woman's club.

The Library committee reported a gift of another large consignment of books. Already this lusty infant shows signs of speedily outgrowing his present home and the committee are wisely looking ahead as they watch the development.

A resolution was adopted voicing appreciation of the band. A motion to donate ten dollars—to aid them in their effort to get the necessary equipment was unanimously passed.

The club then proceeded to the election of officers in the regular manner and as prescribed by the By-laws. The election resulted as follows: President, Mrs. W. W. Warriner; vice president, Mrs. James Gray; secretary, Mrs. Paul Ferris; treasurer, Mrs. H. H. Grimm; chairman of social committee, Mrs. Frank King; chairman of membership committee, Mrs. A. D. Felter.

The retiring president, Mrs. W. W. Dayton, by the tact, ability and gracious dignity with which she has discharged the duties of her office, has reflected great credit upon the Woman's club and will carry into her retirement many real friends who have learned her worth.

The new president, Mrs. W. W. Warriner needs no introduction. She is a natural leader—and is thoroughly familiar with the needs and conditions of the community.

Under her leadership the Antioch Woman's club will continue to "carry on," and to use its influence and combine its efforts to make the world or at least this little corner of it, a better place in which to live.

A reception for the new officers will be held June 19, on Mrs. King's beautiful lawn. This event will close club activities until Oct. 1st.

Unnecessary.

A congregation of negroes was used to hearing sermons that harped continually on hell and eternal punishment. One hot summer day the preacher made no mention of hell. One of the congregation asked him why he had omitted it. "Everything in season," he replied. "De thahmometah wuz at ninety-foh while I wuz a-preachin' de sthomon. Hell spoke foh itself, I reckon."

TIME HAD BROUGHT CHANGES

Aunt Jane Not Now Quite as Considerate as She Had Been in the Courtship Days.

In the days when Uncle Joe and Aunt Jane were courting they sat in the garden one night under a summer moon, silent and adoring.

"Joe, dear," suddenly said Aunt Jane at last, "I want to ask you something."

"Ask me anything, darling."

"Something is tickling my neck," she whispered. "If I let go one of your hands to drive it away would you mind very much?"

Their home is now noted for its extreme neatness, and Uncle Joe has been thoroughly trained to keep it neat; how thoroughly is shown by the fact that on a recent afternoon he went into the kitchen to get a drink. For a moment Uncle Joe stood before the sink gazing at the shining faucets. "Guess you've just washed up the sink, ain't you?" he inquired at last.

"Yes, I have," she replied. "Why?"

"Well," exclaimed Uncle Joe, with a slight sigh, "I did think I'd relish a drink of water, but I guess I can get along without it."—Los Angeles Times.

No Wonder.

"Pa, why do they say in the market reports that wheat is nervous?"

"I guess, son, it is because it expects to be thrashed."—Boys' Life.

Important to all Women
Readers of this Paper

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of appetite.

Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be despondent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine, will do for them. By enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., you may receive a sample bottle by Parcel Post. You can purchase medium and large size bottles at all drug stores.—Advertisement.

THE FIRST KISS.

Synopsis.—With his grandfather, small Ramsey Milholland is watching the "Decorated Day Parade" in the home town. The old gentleman, a veteran of the Civil war, endeavors to impress the youngster with the significance of the great conflict, and many years afterward the boy was to remember his words with startling vividness. In the schoolroom, a few years afterward, Ramsey is not distinguished for remarkable ability, though his pronounced dislikes are arithmetic, "Recitations" and German. In sharp contrast to Ramsey's backwardness is the precocity of little Dora Yocum, a young lady whom in his bitterness he denominates "Teacher's Pet." In high school, where he and Dora are classmates, Ramsey continues to feel that the girl delights to manifest her superiority, and the vindictiveness he generates becomes alarming, culminating in the resolution that some day he will "show" her. At a class picnic Ramsey is captured by and bagged by Milla Rust, the class beauty, and endures the agonies of his first love. Ramsey's parents object to Milla and wish he'd taken up with Dora Yocum.

CHAPTER VI.—Continued.

Milla hung weightily upon his arm, and they dawdled, drifting from one side of the pavement to the other as they slowly advanced. Albert and Sadie, ahead of them, called "good night" from a corner, before turning down the side street where Sadie lived; and then, presently, Ramsey and Milla were at the latter's gate. He went in with her, halting at the front steps.

"Well, g'night, Milla," he said.

"Want to go out walking tomorrow night? Albert and Sadie are."

"I can't tomorrow night," she told him with obvious regret. "Isn't it the worst luck! I got an aunt comin' to visit from Chicago, and she's crazy about playing 'Five Hundred,' and mama and papa said I haf to stay in to make four to play it. She's liable to be here three or four days, and I guess I got to be around home pretty much all the time she's here. It's the worst luck!"

He was doleful, but ventured to be literary. "Well, what can't be helped must be endured. I'll come around when she's gone."

He moved as if to depart, but she still retained his arm and did not prepare to relinquish it.

"Well—" he said.

"Well what, Ramsey?"

"Well—g'night."

She glanced up at the dark front of the house. "I guess the family's gone to bed," she said absently.

"I s'pose so."

"Well, good night, Ramsey." She said this, but still did not release his arm, and suddenly, in a fluster, he felt that the time he dreaded had come. Somehow, without knowing where, except that it was somewhere upon what seemed to be a blurred face too full of obstructing features, he kissed her.

She turned instantly away in the darkness, her hands over her cheeks; and in a panic Ramsey wondered if he hadn't made a dreadful mistake.

"Scuse me!" he said, stumbling toward the gate. "Well, I guess I got to be gettin' along back home."

He woke in the morning to a great self-loathing; he had kissed a girl. Mingled with the loathing was a curious pride in the very fact that caused the loathing, but the pride did not last long. He came downstairs morbid to breakfast, and continued this mood afterward. At noon Albert Paxton brought him a note which Milla had asked Sadie to ask Albert to give him.

"Dearie: I am just wondering if you thought as much about something so sweet that happened last night as I did you know what. I think it was the sweetest thing. I send you one with this note and I hope you will think it is a sweet one. I would give you a real one if you were here now and I hope you would think it was sweeter still than the one I put in this note. It is the sweetest thing now you are mine and I am yours forever kiddo. If you come around about Friday eve it will be all right. Aunt Jess will be gone back home by then so come early and we will get Sade and Alb to go to the band concert. Don't forget what I said about my putting something sweet in this note, and I hope you will think it is a sweet one but not as sweet as the real sweet one I would like to—"

At this point Ramsey impulsively tore the note into small pieces. He turned cold as his imagination projected a sketch of his mother in the act of reading this missive, and of her expression as she read the sentence: "It is the sweetest thing now you are mine and I am yours forever kiddo." He wished that Milla hadn't written "kiddo." She called him that, sometimes, but in her warm little voice the word seemed not at all what it did in link. He wished, too, that she hadn't said she was his forever.

Suddenly he was seized with a horror of her.

Moisture broke out heavily upon him; he felt a definite sickness, and, wishing for death, went forth upon the streets to walk and walk. He cared not whither, so that his feet took him in any direction away from Milla, since they were unable to take him away from himself—of whom he had as great a horror. Her loving face was continually before him, and its sweetness made his flesh creep. Milla had been too sweet.

When he met or passed people, it seemed to him that perhaps they were able to recognize upon him somewhere the marks of his low quality. "Softy! Ole sloppy fool!" he muttered, addressing himself. "Slushy ole mush! . . . Spooner!" And he added, "Yours forever, kiddo!"

Convulsions seemed about to seize him.

Turning a corner with his head down, he almost charged into Dora Yocum. She was homeward bound from a piano lesson, and carried a rolled leather case of sheet music—something he couldn't imagine Milla carrying—and in her young girl's dress, which attempted to be nothing else, she looked as wholesome as cold spring water. Ramsey had always felt that she despised him and now, all at once, he thought that she was justified.

Leper that he had become, he was unworthy to be even touching his cap to her! And as she nodded and went briskly on, he would have given anything to turn and walk a little way with her, for it seemed to him that this might fumigate his morals. But he lacked the courage, and, besides, he considered himself unfit to be seen walking with her.

He had a long afternoon of anguishes, these becoming most violent when he tried to face the problem of his future course toward Milla. He did not face it at all, in fact, but merely writhed, and had evolved nothing when Friday evening was upon him and Milla waiting for him to take her to the "band concert" with "Alb and Sade." He made shift to seek a short interview with Albert, just before dinner.

"I got a pretty rotten headache, and my stomach's upset, too," he said, drooping upon the Paxtons' fence. "I been gettin' worse every minute. You and Sade go by Milla's, Albert, and tell her if I'm not there by half-past-seven, tell her not to wait for me any longer."

"How do you mean 'wait'?" Albert inquired. "You don't expect her to come pokin' along with Sade and me, do you? She'll keep on sittin' there at home just the same, because she wouldn't have anything else to do, if you don't come like she expects you to. She hasn't got any way to stop waitin'!"

At this, Ramsey moaned, without affectation. "I don't expect I can, Albert," he said. "I'd like to if I could, but the way it looks now, you tell her I wouldn't be much surprised maybe I was starvin' in with typhoid fever or pretty near anything at all." He moved away, concluding feebly: "I guess I better crawl on home, Albert, while I'm still able to walk some. You tell her the way it looks now I'm liable to be right sick."

And the next morning he woke to the chafings of remorse, picturing a Milla somewhat restored in charm waiting hopefully at the gate, even after the half-past seven, and then, as time passed and the sound of the distant horns came faintly through the darkness, going sadly to her room—perhaps weeping there. It was a picture to wring him with shame and pity, but was followed by another which electrified him, for out of school he did not lack imagination. What if Albert had reported his illness too vividly to Milla? Milla was so fond! What if, in her alarm, she should come here to the house to inquire of his mother about him? What if she told Mrs. Milholland they were "engaged"? The next moment Ramsey was projecting a conversation between his mother and Milla in which the latter stated that she and Ramsey were soon to be married, that she regarded him as already virtually her husband, and demanded to nurse him.

In a panic he fled from the house before breakfast, going out by way of a side door, and he crossed back yards and climbed back fences to reach Albert Paxton the more swiftly. This creature, a ladies' man almost professionally, was found exercising with an electric iron and a pair of flannel trousers in a basement laundry, by way of stirring his appetite for the morning meal.

"See here, Albert," his friend said breathlessly. "I got a favor. I want you to go over to Milla's—"

"I'm goin' to finish pressin' these trousers," Albert interrupted. "Then I've got my breakfast to eat."

"Well, you could do this first," said Ramsey, hurriedly. "It wouldn't hurt you to do me this little favor first. You just slip over and see Milla for me, if she's up yet, and if she isn't, you better wait around till she is, because I want you to tell her I'm a whole lot better this morning. Tell her I'm pretty near practickly all right again, Albert, and I'll prob'ly write her a note or something right soon—or in a week or so, anyhow. You tell her—"

"Well, you act pretty funny!" Albert exclaimed, fumbling in the pockets of his coat. "Why can't you go on over and tell her yourself? But just as it happens there wouldn't be any use your goin' over there, or me, either."

"Why not?"

"Milla ain't there," said Albert, still searching the pockets of his coat. "When we went by her house last night to tell her about your headache and stomach and all, why, her mother told us Milla'd gone up to Chicago yesterday afternoon with her aunt, and said she left a note for you, and she said if you were sick I better take it and give it to you. I was goin' to bring it over to your house after breakfast." He found it. "Here!"

Ramsey thanked him feebly, and departed in a state of partial stupefaction, brought on by a glimpse of the instabilities of life. He had also, not relief, but a sense of vacancy and loss; for Milla, out of his reach, once more became mysteriously lovely.

Pausing in an alley, he read her note.

"Dearie: Thought I ought to call you up but over the phone is just nix for explanations as Mama and Aunt Jess would hear everything and thought I might seem cold to you not saying anything sweet on account of them listenin' and you would wonder why I was so cold when telling you good-by for a while maybe weeks. It is this way Uncle Purr wired Aunt Jess he has just taken in a big touring car on a debt and his vacation starts tomorrow so if they were going to take a trip they better start right away so Aunt Jess invited me. Now dearie I have to pack and write this in a hurry so you will not be disappointed when you come by for the B. C. to-night. Do not go get some other girl and take her for I would hate her and nothing in this world would make me false for one second to my kiddo boy. I do not know just when home again as the folks think I better stay up there for a visit at Aunt Jess and Uncle Purr's home in Chicago after the trip is over. But I think of you all the time and you must think of me every minute and believe your own dearie she will never not be for one second be false. So tell Sade and Alb good-by for me and do not be false to me any more than I would be to you and it will not be long till nothing more will interrupt our sweet friendship."

As a measure of domestic prudence, Ramsey tore the note into irreparable fragments, but he did this slowly, and without experiencing any of the revulsion created by Milla's former missive.

He was melancholy, aggrieved that she should treat him so.

Tin Can.

An old lady was crossing the street the other day. A dog ran into her with such force that it knocked her down. Just then a light auto ran over her. A gentleman witnessing the accident came to her assistance. He said: "Lady, did that dog hurt you?"

She looked at him a little dazed and replied: "No, the dog didn't hurt me, it was the tin can tied to its tail."

She Said Something.

Every day new examples of the versatility of the very young come to hand. The latest is about the little girl who forgot her manners when she was handed a piece of candy. "Aren't you going to say anything to me?" asked her mother. And the tiny youngster threw her arms around mother's neck and exclaimed: "I'll tell the world, mother, you're some kid."

More Artistic.

"Dearest," he said, sighing like a furnace. "It doesn't seem like the same old smile you used to give to me."

"Oh, no, Jack," replied the sweet thing, "this is a new one. I have been studying at a school of dramatic art."

George Moore, the English novelist, and a group of other literary were discussing recent books. Mr. Moore wished to refer to the author of a new publication, but could not recall his name. "You know," said Moore, "the man with the funny name. Dear, dear, what is it? You know, a stupid name, a silly name." "Shaw?" suggested some one. "That's it," said Moore. "Shaw! What an extraordinary name!"

SUNDAY SERVICES:

Sunday School 9:45
Morning Service 11:00
Epworth League 7:00
Evening Service 7:45

Last Sunday morning's service emphasized the religious training of childhood and youth. It was shown from the bible that God has very strictly commanded that definite and ample provision must be made for the very thorough religious training of all children.

It was pointed out that the average child in America is now receiving 1,000 hours of secular training a year and less than 50 hours of religious training a year. The situation was said to be such as compelled every thinking person to realize that the foundations of our civilization are in peril. No nation can endure long with its childhood and youth receiving less than one twentieth as much religious training as secular training.

The situation must be radically and quickly changed. It will be changed. It is now being changed. Thousands of communities now have week day schools of religious training, open two to four hours a week during the school year, and five days a week for four to six weeks during the summer vacation period of the public schools.

There is some agitation about the possibility of having such a school in Antioch. Why not?

The evening service emphasized the great truth that there is no energy or force, or power in all the universe which can possibly make the minds of men right but the Spirit of God. The holy spirit. And that there is no agency but the minds of men, turned right and kept right which can save the world or its civilization from ruin. Therefore, the primal need of the time was proclaimed to be that the people shall seek the fullness of the holy spirit's presence and power as the only hope for the saving of human life and civilization.

Although last Sunday was the regular date for Children's day, other things interfered and made it impracticable to put on the program then. It was, therefore, decided to put it a week later, and the program will be given this coming Sunday, June 18 at the church hour, 11 o'clock.

The fourth quarterly conference will be held at the church on Tuesday evening of next week, June 2 at 8 o'clock. All finances and other matters of church business should be attended to as far as possible before that date.

A number have recently been paying up their centenary subscriptions and thus greatly helping to avert the danger of some serious defeats of the Lord's work in a number of places in the fields. All subscriptions should be paid up to date, or as nearly so as circumstances make possible.

Nature's Wonderful Power.
Beside the moist clouds the slender flags arise filled with the sweetness of the earth. Out of the darkness under—that darkness which knows no day save when the plowshare opens its chinks—they have come to the light.

Yonder a steam-plow pants up the hill, groaning with its own strength, yet all that strength and might of wheels, and piston, and chains, cannot drag from the earth one single blade like these. Force cannot make it; it must grow—an easy word to speak or write, in fact full of potency.—Richard Jefferies, in "Out of Doors."

Original "Rivals."
A rival was originally any person who used the same stream. As experience shows, there is no such fruitful source of contention as a water-right. Neighbors would be often at strife with one another in regard of the period during which they severally had a right to the use of the stream; turning it off into their own fields before the time; leaving open the sluices beyond the time; or in other ways interfering with the rights of each other. So it was that "rivals" came to be applied to any who were in competition with one another.

Picturesque Sight.
One of the most picturesque sights in the world is the elephants at work in the city of Rangoon, at the mouth of the Irrawaddy river, where the logs arrive. At Rangoon the logs float in an undisturbed inlet. Here they are released from their inclosing boom chains. Then elephants take the logs out of the water and pile in the mill yards such logs as are not required for immediate sawing, and which may need to be stored for one or more years.

Ancient Fortifications.
The explorers who attempted to scale Mount Everest, discovered among other things, several ancient fortifications built in unexpected places in the high Tibetan mountain valleys, 15,000 feet above sea level. Partly to protect the fields from being washed away by mountain freshets and partly to guard against raids by enemy tribes, walls 20 feet high and often more than a mile long, guarded by strange round watch towers, were constructed at intervals at the head of these fertile valleys.

Rings in Wood.
While all the trees of the temperate region and many of those from the tropics have growth rings, in not all cases are the contrasts in density and color great enough to show prominently in the finished material, says the American Forestry Magazine. Common examples are basswood, aspen, paper birch, tulip wood, holly, tupelo, buckeye, yellow cedars, and certain of the pines, firs and spruces.

The New York Globe was founded on December 9, 1793, by Noah Webster, as the "American Minerva." It was renamed "The Commercial Advertiser" on October 7, 1797 and was again changed to "The Globe and Commercial Advertiser" on February 1, 1804. This is the oldest daily newspaper still in existence in America. A weekly paper, the New Hampshire Gazette, was established in 1750 and is still published. IS MEETING AND BEATING ALL EXISTING COMPETITION

How do we do it? Because we have cut our overhead expense in every way possible. No expense of auto trucks, gas, oils, tires depreciation, etc., eliminating of about four extra employees necessary to operate a credit and delivery business. All this expense which amounts to several thousand dollars per year we are paying to you Mr. Consumer, in form of groceries at cut prices.

Now my friends if you are in doubt, come in and make a few purchases, then make the same purchases from some competitor, and then compare notes.

You know that every penny saved is a penny earned, and this is exactly what we are doing for you, saving you from one to ten cents on every grocery you buy means from one to ten cents you have earned.

Therefore, may we earn some pennies for you every day. After all is said and done, we are all human, the war is over, and there was never a time that we all insisted on our moneys worth as much as we do today.

To this end we have installed the Cash and Carry System in Our Grocery Department and we believe without a question of a doubt that every housewife of this community will give us her entire grocery business when she learns how easy it is to save on her grocery bill thru trading at the

Farm Bureau News

C. E. WHELOCK of Libertyville, Ill.

Farm Bureau Birthday Celebration
County Farm Bureaus in Illinois will celebrate at DeKalb on June 30. The occasion will mark the end of the first ten-year lap of Farm Bureau work in this state.

Farmers will knock off work for a couple of days and take a well-earned vacation, driving to DeKalb to enjoy a real gala day. It will be fun of the highest type.

A Big Free Pageant

No time or effort is being spared to make this the best ever. In the morning three of the best known speakers in America will talk to farm people. At 2 o'clock will be staged the biggest agricultural pageant ever held. It is being developed by Miss Nina B. Lamkin, a trained pageant director. Two thousand people from Illinois Farm Bureaus will take part in the cast, giving a living picture of Farm Bureau work from the beginning up to today. We are told that even a peep will be taken into the future.

Already the various groups who will take part in the pageant are working out their parts and there will be a combined rehearsal June 24. The various Farm Bureaus over the state will make up floats illustrating major Farm Bureau accomplishments. Lake county will have a float illustrating the pure bred sire campaign that was conducted by the Farm Bureau. The Lake County Holstein-Friesian association are planning a float to show the development of Holsteins in this county.

The Rosecrans' band united with other bands from northern Illinois will furnish music. Two groups, one from Diamond Lake and the other from Grayslake, will take part in one feature of the pageant which will illustrate the planters of the olden days going to the field to plant and cultivate the grain and corn. Men, women and children, in fact the whole family will be included in this group. Old fashioned dress for the women and, if they can be found, leather boots and con skin caps for the men together with the old time farm tools used forty and fifty years ago, will complete the scene.

Forty other counties have announced.

ed their floats and the series presents a very interesting lineup.

DeKalb Committee Will Care for Visitors

Some Farm Bureau members are planning to arrive at DeKalb the night before the celebration and the local committee under the guidance of S. E. Bradt, the chairman, is planning to provide lodging or tents for such visitors. The committee should be notified a week in advance.

Others will come by special trains to DeKalb. Low round trip rates are being secured by representatives of the Illinois Agricultural association. From 15,000 to 20,000 farm people are expected to attend the celebration, as it is a much more attractive event than the annual I. A. A. picnic.

Lake County Bull to Dixon Plant
The herd bull from the farm of A. S. Benson, Grayslake, has been purchased for the Dixon A. R. O. testing plant.

A careful research was made in the east and in Wisconsin and Minnesota for a bull with suitable breeding and production record to head the herd of some sixty Holstein cows at the Dixon plant. One young bull was purchased in the east but the committee returned to Illinois and to Lake county to find a senior herd sire that filled their requirements.

King Calantha Aaggie Clothilde is a four year old bull just in his prime. His sire, one of the good transmitting sons of Colantha Johannahad, is also a son of the 34th foundation dam, Aaggie Cornucopia Pauline.

His dam, who has a 30 pound heifer record, is one of the four 30 pound daughters for the century size, Aaggie Cornucopia Johannahad, and is from a 33 pound daughter of Colantha Johannahad and a 31 pound foundation dam, Abby Hartog Clothilde.

The herd sire and nearly 30% of the cows at the testing plant are from Lake county, a splendid record for our Holstein breeders and the future holds almost a certainty of making some record figures on production from individual cows.

When Should We Cut Red Clover For Hay
"In order to obtain the best results with red clover hay it should be cut just as it comes into full bloom. There are conditions, however, which make it advisable to cut earlier or later. To get the highest per cent of digestible nutrients the hay should be cut early while the largest amount of feed will be secured from the late cuttings. The per cent of protein in the plant increases up to the blooming period but decreases after that. Early cuttings are difficult to cure because the plant contains 75% or more of water, while the late cuttings are equally difficult to handle because of the loss of leaves. It should be remembered that about 40% of the plant is leaves, which is the best part of the hay. The leaves are richest in protein, containing about two thirds of the total of the plant. The small stems are next while the coarse stems are poorest in this valuable part of the feed.

The weather is also an important factor in deciding the time of cutting clover hay. Both early spring and late fall furnish poor hay, curing weather. Any delay in the time of cutting hay in the spring should bring us nearer the ideal hay weather. Of course the reverse is true for fall cuttings. In any case one should avoid wet rainy weather during the process of making hay. One safe rule to follow is never to cut clover when there is moisture on the plants, either in the form of dew or rain.

If the grower intends to harvest seed from the second crop, he should cut the hay crop so as to control the clover seed insects. Results of several experiment stations indicate that the hay crop should be harvested before the middle of June. While this varies with the season yet in most cases it would be before the heads have come into full bloom.

The quantity of hay; the quality or feeding value as influenced by the digestible nutrients, the per cent of heads, leaves, and coarse stems; the weather for making hay as well as the influence of the hay crop on the succeeding seed crop are all factors which should be considered in deciding when to cut clover for hay. Considering all factors, the full bloom stage will meet conditions on most farms.—John Pieper, Crop Production Division, U. of I.

WORKING GIRLS LOOK HERE

Read What Mrs. Lucas Writes Concerning Her Troubles, Which May be Just Like Yours

St. Louis, Mo.—"I had troubles that all women are apt to have, with pains in my back, weak, tired, nervous feelings and a weak stomach. I had been this way about a year and was unable to work or stand on my feet for any length of time. My husband's aunt told me how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done her and begged me to try it, so I did. All my pains and weakness are gone, my stomach is all right and I do my work at home and also work for Swift's Packing Company. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends and you may publish my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. LULU LUCAS, 719A Vandeventer St., St. Louis, Mo.

Again and again one woman tells another of the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

You who work must keep yourself strong and well. You can't work if you are suffering from such troubles. Mrs. Lucas couldn't. She tried our Vegetable Compound and her letter tells you what it did for her. Give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial now.

"Willing to Pay."

Two colored ball tennis were assembled and were about to start their game, but discovered one of their fielders missing. Their captain asked for someone from the crowd to fill the fielder's place. A tall gent said he had some experience, so they put him in the game. Everything went all right till it came his turn at bat. After the newcomer had swung at two pitched balls he connected with the next one and it went soaring over the fence. The crowd all began to yell "Run! Run!" But he didn't get it, and turning to the crowd he shouted: "Run nothing. I'll buy them another ball!"

Proof.

"Hubby, do you love me?"
"Of course."
"How much do you love me?"
"Well, here's my check book. You can glance over the stubs."—Judge.

Help That Aching Back!

Is your back giving out? Are you tormented with backache and stabbing pains? Do any exertion leave you "all played out"? Feel you just can't keep going? Likely your kidneys are to blame. Overwork, strains, hurry and worry tend to weaken the kidneys. Backache is often the first warning. Headaches and dizziness may come, too, and annoying bladder irregularities. Help the kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills—the remedy recommended by thousands. Ask your neighbor!

An Illinois Case

James W. Overly, carpenter, 718 W. England St., Taylorville, Ill., says: "My rest was broken by the irregular action of my kidneys and the secretions contained sediment. I had a heavy dull ache in my back and stabs of pain took me over. I also had dizzy spells. Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me and I got a box. They cured me."

Western Canada Land of Prosperity

offers to home seekers opportunities that cannot be secured elsewhere. The thousands of farmers from the United States who have accepted Canada's generous offer to settle on FREE homesteads or buy farm land in her provinces have been well repaid by bountiful crops. There is still available on easy terms Fertile Land at $15 to $30 an Acre—land similar to that which through many years has yielded from 20 to 45 bushels of wheat to the acre—oats, barley and flax also in great abundance, while raising horses, cattle, sheep and hogs is equally profitable. Hundreds of farmers in Western Canada have raised crops in a single season worth more than the whole cost of their land. With such success comes prosperity, independence, good homes and all the comforts and conveniences which make life worth living.

Farm Gardens, Poultry, Dairying are sources of income second only to grain growing and stock raising. Attractive climate, good neighbors, churches and schools, good markets, railroad facilities, rural telephone, etc.

LABOR MEETING ON AT CINCINNATI

Samuel Gompers Sees Grim Struggle Ahead for Organized Workers.

CITES HIGH COURT DECISIONS

Open-Shop, Unemployment, Wage Reductions, Recognition of Soviet Russia and One Big Union Among Subjects to Be Discussed.

Cincinnati, June 14.—The open-shop, unemployment, wage reductions, recognition of Soviet Russia, the one big union, court decisions and injunctions affecting labor and other subjects formed the major issues that confronted the American Federation of Labor, when it opened its two-weeks' convention here.

"Our consideration of industry and industrial problems," said a formal statement by Mr. Gompers, forecasting the convention's work, "will be from the point of view of service to the masses of our people. Our consideration of political problems, will be from the point of view of freedom and progress for humanity."

As a final forerunner to the convention, the executive council of the federation decided to draft a supplement to its report that will be presented to the session. This supplement, containing organized labor's interpretation of the United States Supreme court's recent decision in the celebrated Coronado coal case, may not be presented until late this week, but members of the council say that the decision is viewed as a destructive blow to labor unions.

No avowed opposition to the re-election of Mr. Gompers as president or other members of the executive council has yet developed and their supporters are predicting their re-election at the closing session of the convention without opposition.

The prospective contest in the election is for the two delegates to the British trades unions congress. Benjamin Schlesinger of New York, Edward McGovern of Boston and Thomas F. Gahner of Washington are listed by delegates as probable contestants.

Mr. Gompers' statement said: "Those who oppose and antagonize our movement have heaped issues upon us. Our movement is united. Its spirit is unconquerable. There is throughout our ranks a militant determination that justice for all the people must triumph."

"We are shocked by things that have happened twice within a few days. The Supreme court of our land has rendered decisions fitting only to the dark days of old. There is a bolsterous and brazen movement at work to destroy every progressive institution and to submerge human rights for the sake of profiteers and industrial autocrats."

"We realize that there is a grim struggle ahead, but we face the struggle with confidence in the ultimate victory of justice, confident in the final triumph of humanity. We shall continue the crusade. We face the future with hopeful hearts. Our thoughts and our efforts in every session of our convention will center on the promotion of the welfare of men, women and children—the development of a civilization that thinks first of humanity."

The big National Guard armory, far removed from the city's business district, is the seat of the convention. Delegates, forming in parade downtown, marched to it in a body for the opening of the session at 10 a. m. A thousand flags formed the decorations and a band of 100 pieces played the accompaniment for delegates singing "America" as the first item on the program.

After prayer by Rev. Father Peter Dietz, the program centered about a series of welcome addresses by Governor Davis, Mayor Carrall, Secretary T. J. Donnelly of the Ohio State Federation of Labor, and others, ending with Adolf Kummer, the temporary chairman, presenting a gavel, made by Cincinnati carpenters, to Mr. Gompers.

MANY ARE LOST ON SOUND

Five Persons Are Killed and Nearly Fifty Injured When Great Ferris Wheel at Amusement Park Is Blown Over.

New York, June 12.—A violent storm, accompanied by shifting winds that reached a velocity of 88 miles an hour took the lives of more than fifty persons, injured hundreds and caused enormous property loss in the metropolitan section.

Forty persons were reported to have lost their lives while boating in Long Island sound, and many others were killed by falling trees, lightning, and accidents caused by the wind. Ten bodies of the drowned have been recovered, and the waters about New York are being searched for 80 missing persons.

The storm came at the close of one of the most torrid days of the season. The wind, coming gently from the south and southwest, shifted suddenly into the northwest and increased in velocity to 88 miles an hour, and sweeping through New Jersey, Westchester county, across City Island, the Bronx and Manhattan, left death and destruction in its wake.

The most spectacular accident occurred to a 75 foot Ferris wheel in Coney Island amusement park in the Bronx. The giant wheel, loaded with passengers, was blown over, killing five and injuring nearly fifty.

Big trees, uprooted and blown high in the air, killed and injured many in the environs of New York City. A Linden, 100 feet high, uprooted by a sudden blast, crashed through the roof of the Red Lion Inn, Mamaroneck, killing a young woman and her daughter, passengers, was blown over, killing six of the seventeen diners.

Another wind driven tree killed a mother and infant on their own doorstep at New Rochelle. Another killed a man in his automobile on Long Island. Roads and streets were littered with live wires which killed others.

Miss Edna Smith, seventeen, walking with a companion along the Reservoir road at Ossining, was blown into the water and drowned.

Charles Emerson, New Rochelle clothing manufacturer, was rowing in Echo bay with his wife and three children when the storm broke. He managed to row to shore, then died from a heart attack.

Concetti Basaltano and his son, Anthony, ten, of Mount Vernon, were killed when a tree, under which they had found shelter in the Bronx, was struck by lightning.

A mother and infant son were crushed when another tree in Mount Vernon fell on them.

Two Long Island trains and several locals in New Jersey were stopped by trees. Thousands of passengers on suburban trolley lines were stalled for hours, when trees were blown across the rails.

COULD NOT HIT A LICK FOR MONTHS

Petersburg Resident Says She Had About Lost Hope of Getting Better—Now Well and Happy.

"Tanlac has been such a blessing to me I can't help singing its praises," said Mrs. T. J. Archer, highly esteemed resident of 1147 Shepard St., Petersburg, Va.

"I had indigestion so bad I couldn't eat a thing without being in misery for hours, and the pain around my heart caused by the gas seemed all I could stand. I constantly had headaches and awful spells of dizziness. Then to make matters worse rheumatism in my arms, shoulders and knees almost drove me to distraction, and for three months I couldn't do a stroke of work."

"I had just about decided it was no use to take any more medicine when my husband brought me a bottle of Tanlac. Now I never have a touch of indigestion. Headaches and dizzy spells are a thing of the past, and rheumatism has left me entirely. I never have known a medicine to equal Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

EXAMPLES OF REAL OPTIMISM

Only Fair to State, However, That They Are Not Actual Happenings of Record.

"Fire? Fiddlesticks, young man. The booklet says this hotel is absolutely fireproof. Go away and let me sleep."

"What's this—from the income tax bureau? Good! They probably are sending me a refund."

"I don't seem to be able to get central, Mary, but I'm sure those burglars won't be through in the cellar for some time yet."

"It's a good thing Jack has gone over to Gloria. He'll appreciate me all the more after he tires of her."

"Lots of time, George, dear. Just try again and give her a little more gas." That train will stop rather than hit us.

"I feel I'm going to lose my p.t.t. coat before another block, but I'll probably look snappier without it."

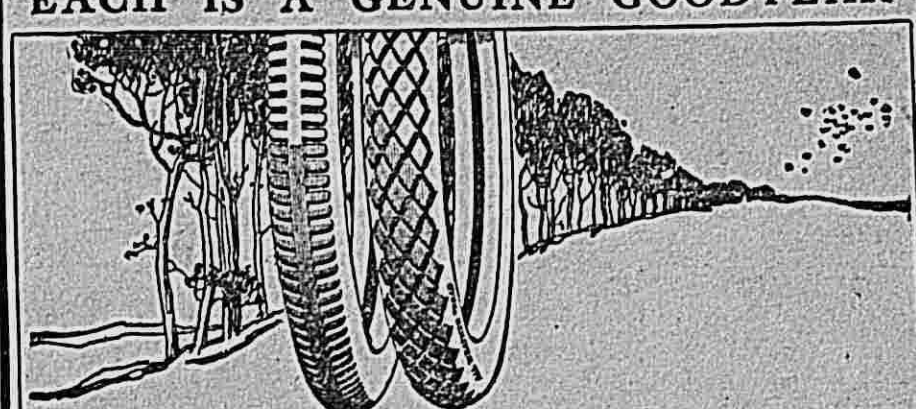

"Ten years in Sing Sing? Thank you, judge. I've always wanted to wear a light suit, but I never had the courage."

"Triplets? Hot dog! That just completes the children's baseball nine!"—Life.

But on an Average?

"I hear your wife is a 200-pounder." "Yes, and some days she pounds me more than that."

EACH IS A GENUINE GOODYEAR

Each of the two tires illustrated above is a genuine Goodyear through and through.

One is the famous reliable 30 x 3 1/2 inch Goodyear All-Weather Tread Clincher.

Its companion is the popular 30 x 3 1/2 inch Goodyear Cross Rib.

The Goodyear Cross Rib is built of the same high grade Egyptian cotton fabric that goes into the All-Weather Tread Goodyear.

It has a long-wearing but differently designed tread, and sells for less money.

More than 5,000,000 of these tires have been sold in the last five years.

Their fine performance has demonstrated the folly of buying unknown and unguaranteed tires of lower price.

HAD NAVAL OFFICER GUESSING

Peculiar Combination of Names Seemed to Be Almost Too Much Out of the Ordinary.

While Lieutenant Commander H. E. Parsons, navy recruiting officer at Houston, Tex., was sitting at his desk a few days ago a young man entered and said he wanted to enlist.

"What is your name?" the officer asked.

"Bryan Dry," was the reply.

"You are a namesake of William Jennings Bryan, I take it," suggested the officer.

"Yes, sir."

"What is your home address?" was the next question.

"Moonshine Hill."

Parsons found on further inquiry that there is a Moonshine Hill in Texas and that Bryan Dry was one of its young inhabitants. Without more questioning, the applicant was signed up for a term of service in the navy.—Kansas City Star.

To Honor Canadian Heroes.

Six thousand soldiers' graves, located in 1,200 cemeteries, scattered throughout Canada, are to be marked with suitable headstones by the Imperial war graves commission and will receive perpetual care. These are the graves of members of the Canadian expeditionary force and the royal air force who died in Canada on the way to or from the front. Included among the number to be cared for are the graves of a few alien enemies who died while under internment during the war, and which, under the terms of the peace treaty, must be looked after.
